

Determining Cause and Effect 2/23/12 - 2/29/12

In stories and in real life there are causes (why things happen) and effects (what happens). To understand stories, it is important to pay attention to why certain events happen and what occurs as a result of those events. As you think of all the action that happens related to an event in a story, within those actions you can determine the Cause and Effect.

Name _____

Date _____

List key events in the story. Then write why the event happened (the cause) and what happened as a result of the event (the effect).
